John,

Here's the language we talked about on the phone for the disclaimer; the Board requires that you add one additional sentence to the standard disclaimer (shown below):

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

All statements of fact, opinion, or analysis expressed are those of the author and do not reflect the official positions or views of the CIA or any other U.S. Government Agency. Nothing in the contents should be construed as asserting or implying U.S. Government authentication of information or Agency endorsement of the author's views. This material has been reviewed by the CIA to prevent the disclosure of classified information. Michael Ruby was not required to, and did not, submit his portion (in [insert type of differentiated, i.e. gray, italic] text) of "Citizen Spy" to CIA for prepublication review, and CIA did not review his portion.

As we discussed and had previously explained in our letter of 17 October 2008, any material written by another author that is to be included with your material must be clearly identified – by type-set style, color, size, etc. – as being different from text you authored. There must be no question as to which text you authored and which material Mr. Ruby authored based on the appearance of the text.

Please keep in mind that while the text your co-author writes is not required to be submitted for review, any ambiguity as to the source of the information would be construed against you, therefore it would be in your best interest to submit the entire text for review.

Please do not hesitate to contact us with any questions.
